From September 25 to November 4, 2012, we will be taking suggestions and voting on which books should make the list. To view the list so far, click here. On Monday, September 24, after a busy summer break, Grade 10 students returned to class with eagerness and confidence. Most students left their phone turned off and logged off their Facebook accounts. However, some students did not heed my warning about using Facebook while in class. It all started when a few students ended up as friends on Facebook with a girl in grade 11. Before long, the girl's group grew to include two male friends in the grade. These boys soon joined in, and now they have over 20 friends on Facebook. "My Facebook friends have family members of their friends, and I've just lost track," one of the boys told me. "They are all in on it," he added. "They know
